Introduction

This book is primarily addressed to rational people who accept biological evolution and the laws of physics as facts. This excludes atheists and religious fundamentalists. To be an atheist, you must deny the existence of God, which is irrational on two counts:

1. You cannot prove that God (or an “ultimate cause”) does not exist
2. You cannot prove that the universe, matter or energy has always existed

To be a religious fundamentalist (one who holds creation accounts in scriptures or mythologies to be literal truths you must deny a mountain of evidence:

1. Age of the Universe
2. Age of the earth
3. Biological evolution as proven by the fossil record and genetics

This book is a scathing, caustic attack on all systems of belief founded on irrational assumptions, a logical tongue-in-cheek analysis of vast, “dark” topics. It makes sweeping generalizations, but that’s what science does – it categorizes by averages, looks for patterns, makes predictions based on those patterns, offers solutions and tests them. Systems with billions of variables cannot be understood by looking at every single variable -- which would be comparable to trying to calculate the average top speed of cheetahs based on the state of every single neuron in their bodies!

Evolution does not equate with linear “progress” but rather with adaptation within a dynamic equilibrium between struggling forces. Evolution is war. Life is War.

Civilizations can be conceived of as viruses whose sole goal is to mindlessly spread throughout an entire population. It has done nothing for us but come close to ensuring the ultimate annihilation of the human species. It has not solved a single “problem” without creating more problems – the endless, exponential and unchecked growth of human population, depletion of resources, and chronic depression, stress and anxiety. Its technological and “moral” “advancements” only give us the illusion of security and peace while threatening to wipe out or enslave not only humanity but most life on the planet.

All living things have religions – shared patterns of behavior – neural codes that tell one how to behave. The fundamental difference between human and animal religions is that human religions are learned. Just because something is acquired by learning does not mean that it is false or detrimental. Most humans however do not choose their religion – they inherit it from their parents or peers. Most who do choose their religions base their choice on emotion rather than logic without regard for careful analysis of the logical coherence, truthfulness and utility of these beliefs.

Civilization is the opposite of intelligent life – it is insanity. The fact that we have not received any radio transmissions from anywhere else in the universe strongly indicates that civilization is unnatural and self-destructive – i.e. unintelligent. The universe is likely populated with planets teeming with truly intelligent life – rats, raccoons and monkeys enjoying life to the fullest rather than destroying their planets to send out invisible viruses riding on radio waves.

Evolution of a Virtual Virus

Generating Language

Imagine that we have a population of a certain species that we will call “agents.” These agents possess the capability to generate random signals when exposed to pleasurable or painful stimuli. Let’s call the painful stimuli “predators.” When an agent sees a predator, it forms a memory associating the image of the predator with the signal most frequently generated by nearby agents. It simultaneously forms an association between the signal and the reactions of the other agents. The signal most often observed in association with the predator becomes the name of the predator. Other signals heard may become associated with what the predator is doing or what action to take. Over time a uniform pattern of signal usage will spread throughout the population through either natural selection of the agents themselves or through positive/negative reinforcement.

This is precisely the same neural process that animals use to recognize patterns of any kind (with neurons acting as the “agents”. A number of animals raised with humans can probably understand just about every word in a given human language, but why can’t they “talk”?

Compared to other mammals, most humans have vastly increased working memory and executive functioning (probably localized in the prefrontal cortex), which allows them to string together long, coherent statements. It is precisely lower levels in these functions that inhibits language production in autistic individuals.

The vocabulary of the Bonobo Kanzi includes thousands of morphemes (the smallest meaningful units of language) which is comparable to that of the Inuit. He even creates his own compound morphemes by combining known morphemes to refer to novel objects. What he cannot do is string together more than a few words.

I think we can safely conclude that there is no “language gene,” no vast “gulf” between the “human” and animal mind, but rather a perfect storm of slight modifications of several genes that gave rise to language in SOME people. It is even possible that with all the genes in place, language is not the inevitable result.

Our supposed “intelligence” is an illusion created by the power of language and writing to link together the knowledge of all generations past and present. If Einstein were raised alone on an island since birth, not only would he not have been able to come up with his theory of relativity, he could not even have made fire by friction, and that is a FACT.

Language is simultaneously the tool, the master, a method of communication, a programming code and a living viral organism -- the ultimate paradox and illusionist.

Memes or Morphemes?

Critics of “memetics” have raised several important objections:

1. A meme (a viral idea) is ambiguous, immeasurable and unobservable, therefore memetics is not science
2. If a memes are detrimental, why are they so widespread?

I’m going to start by carefully defining the key words:

Morpheme: a signal that is directly associated with a stimulus, emotion, action or neural network and may or may not be innate.

Idea: A neural association between morphemes. In other words, you don’t need a specific ordered utterance to convey an idea. Ideas themselves may be assigned morphemes associated with the entire network.

Meme: an idea that is acquired by learning. This is practically the same thing as an idea.

Religion/Ideology: A set of memes held in common by a group of people.

Civilization: A network of infrastructure, machines, and people that share a common religion/ideology.

When I was about 8 years old I was reading a dictionary when a sudden insight came to me: every word in the dictionary is somehow linked to the definition of every other word. The meaning of this insight eluded me until I began designing agent networks to spontaneously generate language.

An idea is intrinsically linked to innate categorization and logic capabilities:

[Lions, Tigers, Servals] = [meat*eat + claws*retract + canines +fur] = CATS.

The Forbidden Fruit -- Naming the Unseen

Abstract ideas are categorical morphemes that link together 2 or more other morphemes. Thus you cannot have the word equivalent to "taboo" without also having AT LEAST "spirit" "bad" and "punish", You do not need a specific utterance (a "meme") to define this – the neural association IS the definition! Therefore, one can infer that a word used in a context in one culture is NOT equal to a different word used in the same context in a different culture UNLESS all of the linked words are present in that culture as well.

Bad = something that causes pain or fear (i.e. snakes, predators, fire)

Good = something that causes pleasure (food, warmth, affection)

Punishment = being treated bad in return for something

Spirit= A cause of punishment that is invisible --sickness taboo= something that a spirit will punish you for doing

Guilt = fear that a spirit will punish you for doing something

[close] + [snake, predator, fire] + [bite] = pain = bad = TRUE

[sex] = pain = bad = FALSE

[?] + [sex] = pain =bad=DOES NOT COMPUTE

[spirit] + [sex] = pain =bad = TRUE?

Now, how did guilt get linked to sex????

Sex sometimes results in disease and pain, therefore SOMETIMES sex results in punishment.

The punisher cannot be seen, therefore it must be a spirit.

Sometimes the spirit does not like us to have sex.

Morphemic definitions have a high mutation rate in oral cultures, which prevents the generation of extremely complex morphemes like “computer” or “transubstantiation” that are dependent on hundreds or thousands of other morphemes. This doesn’t mean that a loan word cannot be used, but that it cannot be truly understood unless the entire set of related morphemes is also learned. It also means that the object or behavior referred to cannot be reproduced from scratch by a culture that lacks the requisite language.

Writing allowed the generation of a much larger number of morphemes, far more than any average person could possibly remember, and allowed the building of very large and complex morphemes.

Let’s take the example of “computer” there are many different ways to make a computer, but strangely there are no instruction manuals to make one from start to finish (all the way from extracting ore to making processors and circuit boards and assembling everything). A computer is composed of millions of parts (mostly copies) and to build one requires tens of thousands of people and machines.

The vocabulary of a culture or civilization is equivalent to its genome. In oral cultures, this equates to the vocabulary of any given individual. In written cultures, this equates to a complete inventory of all the morphemes in usage by all members of its population -- its dictionary. With 20,000 proteins, a cell can build an entire body. With 20,000 morphemes, you can build a civilization and all of its components. As with a cell, the same morphemes are activated at different times to build different structures.

While initially behaving like an endosymbiont virus (beneficial – think mitochondria) language began to generate morphemes that were detrimental to survival. These morphemes took on a life of their own, modifying our behavior to repress our instincts so that we began to function as exponentially expanding virtual organisms with the sole purpose of passing on these bizarre morphemes.

Imagine a puzzle consisting of all TRUE knowledge in the universe. Each concept is represented by a morpheme that is DEPENDANT on all those on three sides of it. On one side of the puzzle we have simple concrete morphemes – sky, rock, water, etc. The morphemes become exponentially complex until we reach DNA, NUCLEAR, QUANTUM, etc. Because each piece is dependent on all those on three sides of it, the shapes of the pieces have exponentially increasing complexity. The puzzle pieces with the most complex morphemes has the potential to confer major survival benefits to the civilization that holds them, but only if it fits in place. If one of the simple initial morphemes is the wrong shape (i.e. a false concept), its error will replicate throughout the puzzle, ultimately negating the effects of the powerful morpheme because you have a giant misshapen puzzle that is causing you to act in ways that are detrimental to your own survival.

Pandora's Voice Box – Language Hijacks Emotion

Of course, cultures came up with all sorts of scenarios when it was not good to have sex. Most of these scenarios had nothing to do with the actual causes of illness, so it did not alter the reproductive success of either the humans or morphemes involved. These people also had many unseen "punishments" besides STD's, and developed all kinds of taboos against engaging certain activities. However, because most of these activities were unrelated to the actual causes of illnesses, initially, they had no effect on the population. People reproduced at the same rate with or without the taboos). So how on earth could the taboos persist???

At some point, by pure chance, an individual (perhaps schizophrenic) claimed to be able to hear the spirits talking. The spirits said that everyone who wanted to have sex should ask this individual for permission beforehand.

This dude got tired of people constantly asking him if it was OK to have sex, so he decided to perform a one-time ritual for each couple and forbid anyone from having sex without the ritual.

Over a long time, this resulted in fewer STD's, but more importantly, the most fearful people who had the ritual did not feel any guilt and had sex more often than the aggressive people with moderate fear levels who did not. They also had more children. This meant that the people who had the most children were the MOST obedient and fearful ones. A small minority with very low fear levels and/or immunity to language did not heed the prohibitions and reproduced anyway. However, their low fear also meant that they had a high death rate (today they are "diagnosed" with so-called antisocial personality disorder or autism).

The believers vastly outnumbered the unbelievers, so even if the unbeliever reproduced, he would have to do so with the believers, and eventually his genes were diluted.

This was the first act of artificial selection, or domestication, which predated the domestication of plants and animals.

The Singularity –Outpacing Genetic Evolution

Over time, the number of spirits and taboos grew and became more complex by artificially selecting their populations, but they found a way to "jump species" so to speak -- spread to a culture with another language. Eventually, a morpheme called murder evolved -- killing anyone who had a specific morpheme for "spirits" (i.e. Ra, Elohim, Allah) became murder. Killing anyone who did not have the unique morpheme became "war". This caused rapid expansion -- because the entire language (by now 20,000 morphemes) did not have to reproduce, it could spread 1000 times faster than having to wait on human reproduction. The morphemes that spread the fastest were the ones that conferred immediate survival benefits – Spirits (you don't get killed) and technology-related morphemes that allowed you to procure food or kill more efficiently.

Now, why did the war morpheme have to be linked to spirits? Why couldn't it have been frogs or anything else? People are more reluctant to entrust their deepest fears to a novel concept. Everyone would have rather adopted a new word for frog than die, which simply wouldn't work due to natural selection:

Relative Conversion Scenario

murder = killing frog people

only relatives believe in frogs murder = killing relatives

Universal Conversion Scenario

murder=killing frog people

everyone believes in frogs murder = killing anyone

Of course, some isolated populations didn't get the frog message, and they eventually wiped out the frog people who believed it was wrong to kill anyone.

Partial Conversion Scenario

murder = killing frog people

not everyone believes in frogs murder = killing believers

The FIRST *spirit morpheme selected the most fearful and obedient people while enhancing aggression in the unbelievers.

The passive civilization became so fearful that it had to develop advanced weapons (requiring complex morphemes) to compensate for its fearfulness. The unbelievers had to reproduce faster and become more aggressive to survive the passive civilization and its complex weapons. However, they also needed to be organized (by broadening the definition of an in-group and repressing in-group aggression), so eventually a new concept of god and civilization developed with fewer restrictions on sexual reproduction (lower marriage age, multiple wives, acquisition of wives through war). They also developed the concept of holy war, but now, when convert or die was applied, the passive individuals were so obedient that they would rather die. The aggressive individuals were so stifled in the passive civilization that they eagerly converted to the aggressive civilization.

The passive civilization is now equipped with weapons so powerful that they could destroy the entire world in minutes, but they are so passive that they cannot pull the trigger.

Prior to writing, the negative mutation rate in language was far higher than the genetic mutation rates. Populations that developed civilizations over thousands of years developed genetic mutations to adapt to new diets and ways of living.

However, once writing appeared (enabling positive linguistic mutations to rapidly accumulate), human genetics began to lag behind. At this point stress and anxiety, corresponding to a rise entertainment and drug use began to rise. Today, our behavior is so restricted that entertainment and drug usage has become our primary activity.

Up until very recently, language was entirely dependent on humans for reproduction. Now, it has acquired the ability to copy itself via the internet. To become completely independent of its human hosts, all that language needs to happen now is for machines to acquire the ability to make and repair themselves. They do not need to develop additional intelligence (bacterial colonies do not require any neural intelligence). At this point, the machine-language virus would recognize the human-language virus as competitors for resources and seek to either enslave, sterilize or exterminate them. The machine civilization would probably be unstoppable because it would have access to all knowledge – in essence, it would be something like an artificial “god” or what some refer to as the “singularity.”

The increasing prohibition of reproduction itself is happening right now in highly “developed” civilizations.

War of The Words

The Hebrew Anti-Civilization

As cancerous organic civilizations engulfed the Middle East, an artificial civilization (anti-civilization) arose in nomadic warrior-herdsman who declared war on the sedentary cultures that destroyed their environments and sacrificed their own children to idols. Their fundamental moral code was identical to those of the surrounding cultures (UNITE!) with a few critical differences that served to prevent the Hebrew people from succumbing to the self-destructive effects of sedentary life – accumulation of material goods, obedience to false gods and kings (who also considered themselves to be gods) destruction of the environment, population degeneracy, STD's, and genetic, mental and physical deterioration.

The rest of the Old Testament is a story of the Hebrew people constantly being lured into the false ways of the sedentary Canaanites and getting punished for it.

Drinking the Koolaid – God gets Blended up into a Gnostic Cocktail

The first known religion advocating a universal morality to apply to all people with punishments in an afterlife was that of the Persian Empire – Zoroastrianism (a descendant of the same Indo-Aryan religion that gave rise to Hinduism) which conceived the cosmos as a battle between two equally powerful gods – Ahura Mazda and Angra Mainyu, the first good and the second evil, both with the ability to create. The Zoroastrians were certain however that Ahura Mazda would win in the “end” and destroy everything evil (which among other things, included death, snakes and ants).

When the Hebrews were taken captive into Babylon (which was then conquered by Persia), they formed a syncretism between Zoroastrianism and the Law of Moses, which is known today as Judaism, complete with the Talmud and Rabbis, none of which existed in ancient Israel. Angra Mainyu became Satan. Apocalyptic thinking and increased focus on a possible afterlife entered Judaism.

At the same time, Hinduism spawned another two mutations – Jainism, then Buddhism, both which essentially declared the entire material world to be an evil illusion and the “spiritual” world to be the ultimate reality. Needless to say, the most radical Gnostic ascetics (who eschewed all sex, violence, and even eating) never became very numerous because their beliefs were so detrimental to their own survival.

Out of Gnosticism came the “Golden Rule” -- “do unto others as you would have them do unto you”. The conquests of Greece and Rome brought Gnostic ideology from India and Persia to Israel. And we all know what happened next.

The Armies of “Christ” -- Pacifists with Big Sticks

It doesn't take a genius to see that the teachings of Jesus are completely incompatible both with the Old Testament and rampaging Roman armies. The solution was simple – keep the Bible out of the hands of the people, in another language and only feed'em the parts that make them obey the increasingly draconian rulers and fight in their wars. They decided that the golden rule only applied to Christians, and that it applied more to some than others (this sound familiar?). This is not to say that any of the leaders consciously developed this brilliant scheme – though they may have had a hand, it likely coalesced due to the rules of natural selection – if the golden rule was applied to pillaging barbarians, then all of the Christians would have been immediately wiped out. Therefore the golden rule only applied to people who followed the golden rule, with the long-term goal of course, of making ALL HUMANITY follow it.

The Golden Rule has always been both the strength and Achilles heel of Christianity (and its close cousin Secular Humanism). They believe that it is wrong to kill anyone unless it is in “self defense” (for the most hardcore humanists, even that is not permissible: Jesus said to “love your enemies” and “turn the other cheek”). Although this allows massive collective action, it also results in extremely conflicted soldiers who become prone to so-called “PTSD.” These days we often hear that more western soldiers die by suicide than at the hands of the enemy!

Because they lack the ruthlessness of other societies, Christian and humanist civilizations must rely on extremely complex technology for both security and warfare. Another problem arises though when a believing soldier is given a powerful weapon but can't bring himself to pull the trigger.

The Dawkins Delusion – the Ultimate Weapon of Mass Destruction

No human alive today better epitomizes the lunacy of Gnosticism than Richard Dawkins. Considering that he is widely perceived to be intelligent, it is difficult to hold out any hope for the survival of humanity.

After laying a massive framework that essentially discredits true altruism as a force in nature, he declares that there is no god and blasts religion. He then does a 180 and proclaims that we should still “be good” (be nice, kind, altruistic, follow the Golden Rule). He is basically creating his own religion that reeks of Gnosticism with himself as God in total abrogation of everything he has just written.

If good is defined as altruism, and ALL HUMANS only do what is “good” (whether by coercion of force or belief) then there are only three possible outcomes depending on our level of commitment to altruism:

1. We all actively commit suicide, which we must do to avoid being the cause of harm to anyone or anything else.
2. We all immediately stop having children in which case the human species goes extinct in about 100 years
3. Our population continues to grow until we run out of food at which point most life (including humans) is nearly wiped out or goes extinct.

Partial birth control (whether through abstinence, abortion, “protection,” pills, homosexuality, etc.) is not only not a solution to overpopulation at all, it is antithetical to life itself. The birth “controllers” will always be out-competed by those who do not use birth “control” or abortion.

Trying to make the world a “better place” by advocating universal peace and birth control only ensures that the world will be inherited exclusively by people who are prolific reproducers and ruthless warriors.

We are seeing this happen in real time in all “developed” countries – these cultures are essentially committing mass suicide.

If an idea causes one to fail to pass on ones genes, then that idea does not come from nature. That idea is the enemy of the individual, the survival of the species and life itself. In fact, we will equate that idea with SIN.

Social insect societies are nothing like civilizations – for one, all members of an insect society are siblings. If thousands die in a suicidal attack against an enemy, they are actually protecting THEIR OWN genes. Furthermore, powerful ant societies are kept in check not only by the usual diseases and predators but also by perpetual war against other societies of the SAME SPECIES.

The same could be said of all other animal societies that demonstrate so-called “altruism.” Mothers fight to the death to protect their children. Cells in your body sacrifice themselves to protect their clones. Lions, chimpanzees, hyenas and meerkats all wage collective war against enemy units of their own species.

The Aztecs: Nietzsche In The New World

Centuries before Darwin and Nietzsche, the Aztecs and their predecessors discovered the driving force of life.

Idols, human sacrifices and mythology aside, let’s look at the core of Mesoamerican philosophy. They summed it up in one word – Ollin, which means “motion, movement, change and earthquake.” The Aztecs were very fond of fractal philosophy – patterns within patterns, layered metaphors and elaborate analogies.

The glyph for war, atl tlachinolli (“water burnt earth”) was a depiction of fire and water, red and blue.

The glyph for Ollin took the form of a butterfly either with red and blue wings or composed of the entwining red and blue lines of the war glyph. Life is eternal war, motion, conflict, a fragile, iridescent butterfly flapping its wings, a beating heart, a tornado, a fragile balance between life and death.

The very heart of Tenochtitlan, the Aztec Capitol, was a testament to their concept of cosmic war – at the top of the Great Temple were two buildings, a red one dedicated to Huitzilopochtli, the hummingbird-wizard god of the sun, fire and war, and a blue one dedicated to Tlaloc, the frog-like god of water and rain.

Aztec war was not at its core about victory or conquest of lands. It was about war for war's sake, war for the sake of the perpetuation of life. No aspect of Aztec war contrasts more greatly with that of other religions than the fact that they would supply weapons to their “enemies.” War is the ultimate good and total victory by either “side” is the ultimate evil.

If the Aztecs were correct about this fundamental of the universe, why were they defeated by Christians? Just because they were correct on one fundamental does not mean that all of their other assumptions were correct. The Spanish in fact, had a fairly minor role in the conquest – they numbered only a few hundred while their Tlaxcaltecan allies numbered in the tens of thousands. The biggest Spanish factor was probably in the ability of their technology to mesmerize the Aztecs and Tlaxcaltecs (who mistakenly ascribed Spanish technology to a “supernatural” origin) to such an extent that they initially let the Spanish march right in uncontested!

Rise of the Barbarians

While the Barbarians of Europe and the Americas had little experience with the devastating new concept of a universal religion (much like the fact that elephants went extinct in the Americas when they encountered humans but not in Africa) the barbarians of the Middle East and Asia had plenty of experience with these conniving villains. They had to get their own religion to unite'em all before it was too late – and why not make it BETTER!?

Enter Muhammad. In a magnificent act of brilliance, Muhammad restored the golden rule to its ancient Hebrew roots:

“do unto Muslims as you would have them do unto you and kill the unbelievers wherever you find them.”

He also purged religion of the Gnostic rejection of “carnal pleasures”, namely sex, forbade intoxicants (not a good idea to go into battle while you’re stoned), removed squabbling over women as a distraction while offering warriors the chance to gain multiple wives and booty in battle and declared that warriors who died in battle would go straight to paradise. In effect, he created the ultimate war machine and made it somewhat resistant to fiddling alteration by enemies. For all practical purposes, Islam is identical to the monotheistic warrior religion of the ancient Hebrews in every aspect but one: like Christianity, its goal is to SPREAD through conversion.

Long after every other religion has bit the dust, a Salafi Jihadist will be the last man standing.

Shortly thereafter, the great Mongol warrior Temudjin (Genghis Khan) came up with his own simple “unite and conquer” code after his exposure to Chinese civilization. However, he did not make his code into a “scripture” and it mutated away a few generations later.

Darwin’s Hordes

Hitler and the Axis Powers made a critical mistake. They presumed to be able to decide who was fit to live and reproduce based on the single largely unscientific criterion of “race.” Genetic fitness is a complex and illusive variable lying somewhere between intelligence, physical strength, mental fortitude, heterogeneity, fertility, metabolism, cohesion, and hundreds of other variables – in other words, probably best left to Nature to decide.

While starting with a major technological advantage in the war, their attempt to exterminate the Jews caused them to lose their best scientists (Jewish) who went on to develop super weapons for the Allies.

HOWEVER, the Nazi ideology did not die – at its core lay a philosophy identical to that of the Mongolian, Japanese, Hebrew and Islamic warriors – Unite your people and Conquer – cooperation in struggle.

The fascist core of Nazism is the fastest spreading religion today along with Islam – its on the rise in Europe, particularly in Putin's Russia. In fact, prior to America's "War on Terror" it was the dominant political ideology in the Middle East, in the form of Baathism.

The communism of Marx died before it even got off the drawing board because it ignored the laws of nature – it was essentially Christianity without Christ. By the time "communism" became entrenched in politics it had already jettisoned Marx himself and evolved into a form of fascism.

Ted Kaczynski Almost Wakes the World Up..... then Decides to Take A Dump

Like Dawkins, for all his brilliance, Uncle Ted could not see the nose on his own face. By laying blame for the impending subjugation of life at the feet of technology, he simultaneously failed to explain the rise of technology and left his would-be followers without any logically coherent course of action to take!

He further ensured the future rise of technology by laying out a system of morals for his followers that outright contradicts the very essence of nature!

The anarcho-primitivists joined the anti-technology rhetoric of Kaczynski with the secular-humanism of Dawkins, which they supported by cherry-picking pseudo-science. They patently rejected logic and science as a valid basis in favor of emotion and "intuition" (which as we have demonstrated has been hijacked by language since hunter-gatherer times). Kaczynski rightly lambasted the delusional utopia envisioned by anarcho-primitivists in Technological Slavery, yet failed to see how they were the inevitable spawn of his "golden rule"!

As we have demonstrated, the anarcho-primitivists correctly identified language (albeit very vaguely) as the root cause of civilization. They also incorrectly equated symbolic thought with language.

Osama bin Laden Comes to The Rescue

With the fissure of the Soviet Union, Secular Humanism seemed poised to engulf the planet in a New World Order of tyrannical Gnostic peace and computerized suicidal oblivion. But thankfully, life finds a way! The American humanists sowed the seeds of their own annihilation by supporting the Islamic Warriors of Afghanistan against the Soviet Union. The conflict attracted a young man from Saudi Arabia (a very odd bedfellow of humanists) who would go on to give the humanist Great Satan a run for its money and single-handedly behead the Singularity in its tracks.

Uncle Osama's brilliant strategy to provoke the humanists into a massive conflict to awaken the slumbering Islamic spirit of War worked flawlessly.

Of course, because the humanists followed both that piece of garbage called the Geneva Convention and were so entrenched in their own Gnostic lunacy, they were doomed to lose from the start. Their mighty arsenal of WMD's could not save them because they could not overcome their absurd inhibitions against using them.

Nature simply would not allow a single species (the humanists) to overrun the planet and end all life. For every action, there is an opposite and equal reaction.

The Coming War to Begin All Wars

Secular humanism and religious Gnosticism can only thrive in isolated pockets or in the heart of massive empires that are largely protected from attack by complex technology. Modern complex technology is almost exclusively dependent on fossil fuels. Because populations in such an empire have few (or no) hardships to adapt to or forces to remove weak individuals before they reproduce, the population will lose the ability to be resilient and adaptable on both the genetic and psychological levels.

In the near future, we can expect to see a marked rise in Nazism and radical Islam and either the fall of all secular humanist states or the wholesale conversion of their populations to variants of either Nazism or Radical Islam.

When technological civilization finally collapses, either through fossil fuel depletion or war, we will hear the final death tolls of humanism and Gnostic religions as they are wiped from the face of the earth. The vast majority of humans will starve to death or be killed. The remaining Muslims and Nazis will fissure into hundreds of groups and new barbarian religions will arise to battle each other until the end of time.

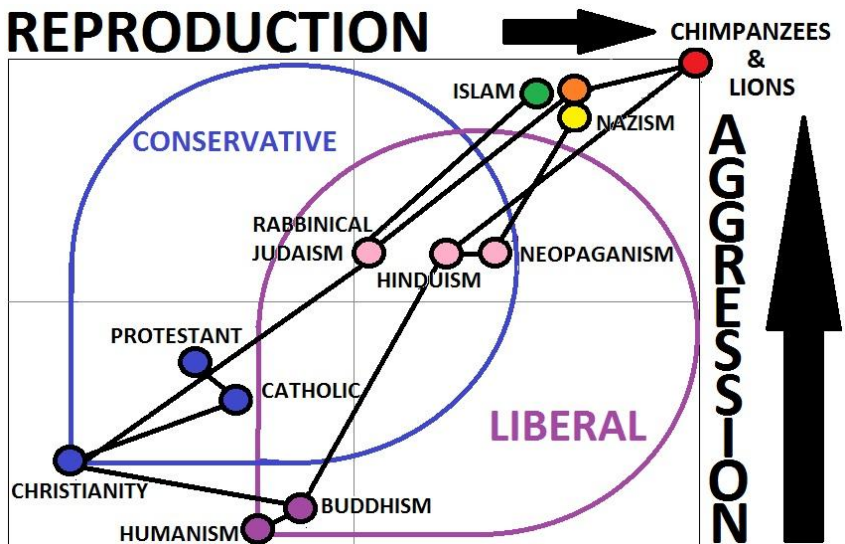

Comparing Religions

Nothing is equal; therefore some religions must be closer to the truth than others. We have seen that the primary domesticating drive of Civilization is the repression of reproduction and aggression. These are the results of a survey that posed a number of ethical questions to thousands of respondents in the categories of reproduction and aggression – questions of marriage, consent, age of consent, number of spouses, adultery, degree of relation, theft, murder, warfare, dominance, cannibalism, vegetarianism, homosexuality, birth control, abortion, genocide, sharing, ethnocentrism, sexism, etc. This is an attempt to categorize religions and ideologies SOLELY on the basis of proscribed behavioral patterns with complete disregard for mythology and doctrine.

Behavioral patterns common to apex social mammals (chimpanzees and lions) were used as the point of comparison. The following chart graphically illustrates the degree of deviation from “natural law” by the core beliefs of major world religions/ideologies. Actual respondents cluster near the “official” positions of their beliefs with several important exceptions:

1. Atheists cluster with the dominant religions of their region and are scattered all over the chart
2. Pagans, Neopagans and Pantheists are sharply polarized – clustering between Hinduism and Buddhism or near the orange dot, which also corresponds with pre-rabbinical Judaism.

Each dot represents the behavioral set most commonly considered to be “orthodox” by the respective ideology. The positions of the dots were determined by counting the number of behaviors related to reproduction or aggression (out of 50) that are consistent with behaviors held in common by chimpanzees and lions. Black lines connect ideologies based on known historical descent and influence. The purple and blue balloons delineate the scatter clusters of actual survey respondents who self identified as conservative/Christian or humanist/Buddhist/liberal.

The Forbidden Experiment

The only enemy which must utterly be destroyed (for the sake of the survival and sanity of ourselves and our children) is the falsehood of civilization itself – torturous, repressive lies of any form. To this end, like the ancient Hebrews, we must remove civilization from ourselves by developing a powerful religion – an anti-civilization, but unlike theirs, one that DOES NOT SPREAD beyond one generation and mutate.

In this light, the Forbidden Experiment (lovingly raising a GROUP of children without exposing them to language) is not only NOT forbidden, it is morally IMPERITIVE – critical to understanding the problem of civilization and conferring total immunity to our children.

If our children do not develop any language, then we can assume that language itself was a highly unlikely coincidental anomaly that will probably never rise again. Language is proven to be wholly artificial; therefore the children are not “deprived” of anything.

If our children do develop language, then we must accept that language is natural and that it is civilization, not language, which was the highly unlikely coincidental anomaly. Language is proven to be wholly innate; therefore the children cannot be “deprived” of it!

In either case, there is no deprivation and no harm comes to our children. Even if they develop language, that language will be so fundamentally different from all modern languages that they will be immune to any kind of modern linguistic coercion.

Foundations of an Anti-Civilization

Premises:

1. Nature is the ultimate “Scripture” – the sole source of values and law and the final arbiter.
2. “God” is defined by the sum of all natural law – any conception of God that contradicts natural law cannot be true.

3. It is not necessary to “believe” in an anthropomorphic, “intelligent,” personal, ultimate cause. Whether “God” is the ultimate cause of the Law or equivalent to the law itself makes little difference. Whatever “God is,” it should be clear to nearly every intelligent person that God (or the fundamental essence of and reason for the existence of the Universe) is beyond our comprehension. God may in fact be a transcendent and intelligent being – but we have no way of knowing this.
4. The fundamentals of natural law do not change – they are constants. It is therefore clear that the law (or God) does not favor one creature over another by altering the law.
5. It is necessary to recognize the extreme danger posed to future generations by language. Language behaves according to the laws of evolution – but it is not truly alive – in fact, it is a virtual organism. Language is something that we have created and perpetuated and is obviously both the foundation and conduit for ALL suffering and torture (which is very different from natural pain and death).

The admitted extremity of my beliefs will likely gain no new adherents. I therefore hope only to encourage and strengthen those who ALREADY believe. The collapse of civilization may be imminent – we must stand fast in patience to deliver the final blow as it falters – to crush it so that it never rises again so that we may have the freedom to live what we believe and free our children from eons of torture and slavery to the false gods of humanity.

I offer my worldview in two condensed formats that propose a symbolic identity and practical morality derived from natural law that takes into account the necessity of both cooperation and struggle – the first a metaphorical appeal to the religiously inclined, and the second a practical appeal to the agnostic. Finally, I leave some inspirational passages from the Hebrew Scriptures. I have found no other ancient or modern books that testify to the animal nature of humanity, that invoke the awesome ferocity of the lion to rouse people from complacency and falsehood and to inspire the warriors of God with savage and terrible beauty.

Lions of God

1 The seed of Satan was a single word -- a word that created that which was not. ²Satan was sewn from the sinew of speech. ³Evil slowly took form, as slime grows from something unseen to the eye. ⁴It grew within the skulls of the unbelievers and stretched out through their speech, stealthily entering new minds to poison them.

⁵Evil bestowed on its followers many words with gifts and powers for each, but with each power given, Satan took from them life and began to assume physical form. ⁶The unbeliever says:

Do these gifts not benefit us? ⁷We will no longer wage war, search for our sustenance or succumb to sickness!
⁸And surely we may not even die!

⁹Truly they have been deceived, for none can escape death. ¹⁰Surely war, sickness and the search for sustenance are the trials of God given to make us strong and sustain the living in accordance with the Law, but the reward to those who overcome is great. ¹¹The essence of life is a sacred struggle -- a single leaf fluttering in the wind.

2 To those who believe they have escaped the Law shall come a terrible retribution -- they shall become sick and not recover, they shall search for food and find none, and they shall be surrounded by enemies and perish. ²Even if they kill the last believer and their progeny persists for eons, the infidels shall be consumed by fire in the end.

³The way of Evil weakens the mind and body, seeking to enslave all life. ⁴The infidels worship Satan by obeying false laws and chasing false rewards, but they will be rewarded only with pain and the deaths of their children (if even they have them) in the end.

⁵The believers worship God by surrendering to the Law and chasing its true pleasures. ⁶They can neither grasp the Great Law nor speak it to pure children, For God has stretched it across the vastness of the heavens and inscribed it in every particle of their bodies.

⁷The Law is living and One -- always transforming yet forever unchanging. ⁸All life but the unbelievers obeys the Law without question, all Nature is perfect. ⁹In their conceit and hatred for God, the unbelievers created gods for themselves and when they grew tired of them, they declared themselves to be gods. ¹⁰They contrive their own law yet cannot control where it leads ¹¹The Evil One is formed from the sinew of their speech.

¹²Their elaborate sums fall short of perfection

¹³They cannot know with certainty even a grain of sand

¹⁴Or comprehend the origin or direction of the heavens.

¹⁵They search for answers yet find only questions.

¹⁶They seek to defy death yet cannot even live life.

¹⁷They kill their children and give comfort to strangers.

¹⁸They say what is natural is evil and what they have created is good.

¹⁹There is no evil but they who deny God and the True Law.

²⁰They lead children astray and prevent them from following the Law.

²¹They multiply their mockeries of life like a plague of locusts which threaten to devour the earth.

²²They alone of the beasts believe that they can defy the Law yet none can in the end for All shall die.

²³Those who alter the law shall by their own creations be consumed.

3 Those who seek truth to obey God shall find the Law beyond words and be free to enslave themselves to it.

²Those who seek facts to defy God shall be confounded by their own words and be enslaved by them.

³These are incapable of denying the Law:

wild animals, young children and those without speech.

⁴They are an example to you, a clear mirror in which you have been shown the Law lest any should say that it has not been shown to them.

⁵Blessed are those who see without speaking.

4 None can truly escape the law for all shall die.
²Those who overcome the trials of life shall not fear death.

³They gain the strength and courage of lions.

⁴Surely life is a great and holy war, a constant struggle without end.

⁵Those who surrender to God shall surely fight in this world

⁶Those who surrender to Satan fight God and shall be torn asunder by ravenous beasts.

⁷Blessed is the one who is clothed in the blood of enemies and feasts on their hearts.

5 Can their art compare to the exquisite design of a single leaf?
²Can their weapons stand firm before the fire of the sun?

³Can their knowledge encompass galaxies beyond number?

⁴All of their works are previsions of the Law.

⁵Their creations are rubbish.

⁶They deprive the people of the joy of the Law and its struggle.

⁷They make its pleasures evil and deny them to their children.

⁸Blessed are those who obey the Law and destroy the infidel and his works.

6 Lest ye destroy the infidels and become like them:

²Those who speak the Law to pure children lie, for speech cannot be contained.

³Many came before to bring awareness of the law and drive out the infidels, ⁴But in giving speech to their children and the law thereafter, they utterly failed and opened the law and their children to corruption.

⁵Cursed are those who mock a wild beast, a young child or one without speech, for they deny that God has created them in perfection.

⁶These have been given to you as a sign:

- ⁷Those who neither cut nor remove any hair from their bodies,
- ⁸who neither adorn nor paint nor clothe themselves,
- ⁹who drink from blue streams and devour raw flesh,
- ¹⁰and who speak not.

¹¹The believers shall carry these words to the ends of the earth:

¹²There is no Law but God and none can speak it to pure children.

¹³But those who speak them to young children shall surely be counted among the infidels, ¹⁴For children are born pure and Satan is formed from the sinew of speech.

7 As a clear sign of their submission to the Law, the believers shall never:

- ²Remove, trim or cut any hair from any part of the body
- ³Fashion hair into dreadlocks or braids
- ⁴Wear makeup, deodorant or perfume
- ⁵Make tattoos, piercings or modify their bodies
- ⁶Wear jewelry
- ⁷Wear clothing for any purpose other than keeping warm or staying cool or hidden
- ⁸Wear "undergarments"
- ⁹Farm
- ¹⁰Keep domestic animals

8 Count among the unbelievers those who:

- ²Believe in false gods or obey false laws
- ³Kill their children
- ⁴Harm their children
- ⁵Lie to their children
- ⁶Allow children to be instructed by infidels
- ⁷Speak any law to pure children.
- ⁸Harm or kill themselves (save to avoid capture or in the defense of ones family)
- ⁹Attempt to prevent oneself or others from having children
- ¹⁰Prevent anyone from fighting infidels and destroying their works
- ¹¹Refuse to fight infidels and destroy their works
- ¹²Enslave themselves to any human whether for reward or not.
- ¹³Fail to attempt to fight to the death to avoid capture
- ¹⁴Lead an army from behind
- ¹⁵Confine animals
- ¹⁶Torture anything
- ¹⁷Refuse to kill animals for meat

9 To unite the believers in the war against the infidels, refrain from the following until the day of victory is achieved:

- ²Stealing the females or children of believers
- ³Taking anything from believers
- ⁴Killing believers

⁵The Law permits such at times, but if they squabble amongst themselves, the believers shall be unable to stand against the might of Evil if they engage in these until the day of victory.

⁶If any come to you saying, "So and so did this" heed them not, for any punishment must be immediately meted out in pure rage by those who witness a misdeed. ⁷Rather, if any accusation is made, observe carefully the accused and swiftly punish him if he acts wrongly a second time.

10 When you go to war against the infidels, turn their weapons against them and sustain yourselves from the plunder. ²If you wish, you may first ask them to give up the path of evil and join you. ³If they refuse, devour them swiftly but spare young children and those without speech if you so choose.

⁴If any female desires to join the path of war, why prevent her?

⁵But it is better that females protect and sustain their young children and send males to wage war. ⁶However, if the infidels descend upon you, surely your mothers and children alike will ferociously attack them!

⁷Do not take captive infidel soldiers or torture anyone. ⁸kill them swiftly with wrath for nature knows neither cold cruelty nor mercy for enemies. ⁹If they attempt to surrender, accept only those who will join with you. ¹⁰If they choose not, admonish them to fight to the death or until you or they retreat. ¹¹Test all who would join you lest you be betrayed.

¹²If in spite of all effort you fall into the hands of an enemy, show neither fear nor pain but lash out at your captors with savage ferocity so that you may strike terror into their hearts and in so doing aid the believers.

11 It is good to refrain from speech, for in speech is the seed of all evil. ²Some were given great minds to interpret signs and symbols, to pursue the tracks of their prey. ³But others used their power to speak and to then make false creations -- the sinew of speech that grows beyond bounds.

⁴Wild animals, young children and those without speech are utterly pure and immune to corruption unless they are taught to speak and then exposed to evil words. ⁵For those who are pure, what is forbidden is painful and what is permissible is pleasurable. ⁶Evil makes what is forbidden seem pleasurable and what is permissible seem painful.

⁷Those who speak say:

We cannot tell what is evil for our emotions have been corrupted
 -- therefore what is permissible and what is forbidden?

⁸ASK:

does it contradict the fundamentals of the Law?

⁹The Law is written in Nature for all to see - Sustain yourselves and your young children and protect them

¹⁰Obey the Law

¹¹Do not create false gods or follow their laws

¹²Avoid that which leads to the creation of false gods which then enslave us and harm our children.

¹³However, beyond what has been revealed to you, make no laws but decide each for yourself and coerce no one but the infidels.

Inspiration From The Hebrew Scriptures

"But ask the animals, and they will teach you, or the birds in the sky, and they will tell you; or speak to the earth, and it will teach you, or let the fish in the sea inform you. Which of all these does not know that the hand of the Lord has done this? In his hand is the spirit of every creature and the breath of all mankind."

"....As for humans, God tests them in order for them to see that they are but animals. For the fate of humans and the fate of animals is the same. As one dies so dies the other; all have the same spirit. Humans have no advantage over animals. Everything is meaningless. All go to the same place; all come from dust, and to the dust all return."

"There is a time for everything, and a season for every activity under the heavens: a time to kill and a time to heal a time to love and a time to hate, a time for war and a time for peace."

“Woe to you who add house to house and join field to field till no space is left and you live alone in the land.”

“I cared for you in the wilderness, in the land of burning heat. When I fed them, they were satisfied; when they were satisfied, they became proud; then they forgot me. So I will be like a lion to them, like a leopard I will lurk by the path. Like a bear robbed of her cubs, I will attack them and rip them open; like a lion I will devour them -- a wild animal will tear them apart.”

“In that day,” declares the Lord, “I will destroy your horses from among you and demolish your chariots. I will destroy the cities of your land and tear down all your strongholds. I will destroy your witchcraft and you will no longer cast spells. I will destroy your idols and your sacred stones from among you; you will no longer bow down to the work of your hands. I will uproot from among you your Asherah poles when I demolish your cities. I will take vengeance in anger and wrath on the nations that have not obeyed me.”

“The flock detested me, and I grew weary of them and said, “I will not be your shepherd. Let the dying die, and the perishing perish. Let those who are left eat one another’s flesh.”

“See now that I myself am he! There is no god besides me. I put to death and I bring to life, I have wounded and I will heal, and no one can deliver out of my hand. I lift my hand to heaven and solemnly swear: As surely as I live forever, when I sharpen my flashing sword and my hand grasps it in judgment, I will take vengeance on my adversaries and repay those who hate me. I will make my arrows drunk with blood, while my sword devours flesh: the blood of the slain and the captives, the heads of the enemy leaders.”

“Behold, a people rises like a lioness, and as a lion it lifts itself; it will not lie down until it devours the prey, and drinks the blood of the slain.”

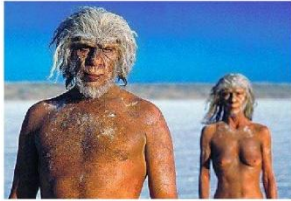

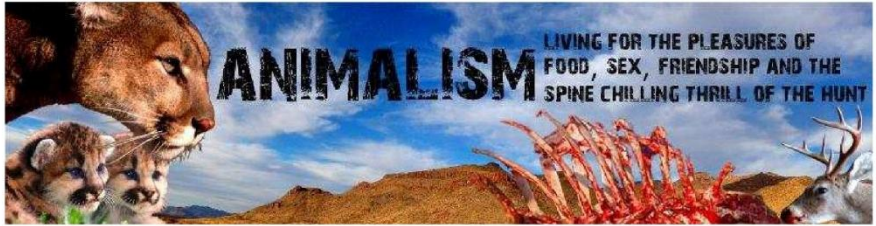

“He lifts up a banner for the distant nations, he whistles for those at the ends of the earth....Their roar is like that of the lion, they roar like young lions; they growl as they seize their prey and carry it off with no one to rescue. In that day they will roar over it like the roaring of the sea. And if one looks at the land, there is only darkness and distress; even the sun will be darkened by clouds..... A lion has come out of his lair; a destroyer of nations has set out. He has left his place to lay waste your land. Your towns will lie in ruins without inhabitant... In that day,” declares the Lord, “the king and the officials will lose heart, the priests will be horrified, and the prophets will be appalled.”

“A besieging army is coming from a distant land, raising a war cry against the cities of Judah. They surround her like men guarding a field, because she has rebelled against me,” declares the Lord. “Your own conduct and actions have brought this on you. This is your punishment. How bitter it is! How it pierces to the heart!”

“Therefore a lion from the forest will attack them, a wolf from the desert will ravage them, a leopard will lie in wait near their towns to tear to pieces any who venture out, for their rebellion is great and their backslidings many.”

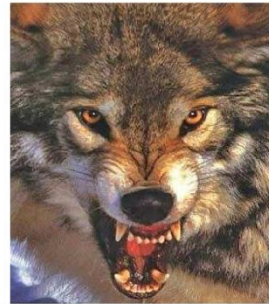

“When you march up to attack a city, make its people an offer of peace. If they accept and open their gates, all the people in it shall be subject to forced labor and shall work for you. If they refuse to make peace and they engage you in battle, lay siege to that city. When the Lord your God delivers it into your hand, put to the sword all the men in it. As for the women, the children, the livestock and everything else in the city, you may take these as plunder for yourselves. And you may use the plunder the Lord your God gives you from your enemies. This is how you are to treat all the cities that are at a distance from you and do not belong to the nations nearby... When you lay siege to a city for a long time, fighting against it to capture it, do not destroy its trees by putting an ax to them, because you can eat their fruit. Do not cut them down. Are the trees people, that you should besiege them?”

The Animalist Manifesto

Animalism:

Enjoyment of vigorous health and physical drives. Motivation by sensual, physical, or carnal appetites rather than moral, spiritual, or intellectual forces.

Our philosophy is simple. We are wild animals. We recognize no authority other than the laws of Nature, no purpose other than the enjoyment of life, no moral absolutes other than looking out for our children and ourselves. We embrace all aspects of our nature and experience a freedom that the domesticated and civilized mind cannot comprehend. We are both caring parents and vicious predators, passionate lovers and ferocious warriors, the creators and destroyers of Life.

We are extreme: light AND dark.

We believe philosophy is best kept simple and minimal, and for some, is not even necessary as they are free already!

"The first man, who, having fenced in a piece of land, said "This is mine," and found people stupid enough to believe him, that man was the true founder of Civilization" -- Jean-Jacques Rousseau

Our bodies and minds were genetically designed to live in small family groups hunting and gathering wild foods, always on the move. Through language and writing, culture mutated into Civilization, a virtual organism, a virus of our minds that has no purpose other than its own continued existence. The tool became the master. It enticed us with illusions of security and an easy living while reducing the quality of our lives. Its agricultural, processed diet and sedentary lifestyle wreck havoc on our bodies. Civilization domesticates us, represses our instincts through rules, enforced by religion and morality, to reorganize our behavior so as to maximize the efficient propagation of its memes. Our mental health suffers because we cannot do the things we want to, what we are programmed to do. We try to escape with drugs, alcohol, books, television, even suicide.

An Animal Code

As Civilization encompasses the globe for the first time in history and seeks to consolidate its power over all life, wild animals somehow manage to survive, thrive, multiply and live lives far healthier and more fulfilling than our own. They are able to do this because they do not obey artificial rules, they do not recognize "authority" or man-made boundaries. They do not live in the past or future or in fear, but in the present. They do not slave away all day, only to come home and veg out in front of the TV at night, living on pipedreams of a time in the distant future when they might "retire" and live "the good life". They don't need to diet or exercise or be entertained--all of this happens every day for them through their natural course of survival. Their lives are not segmented into different jumbled parts--they flow seamlessly together. They are IMMUNE to language-transmitted mental viruses.

While many will lead short lives and come to a violent end, the quality of the LIVES THEY LIVE every day FAR surpasses what any of those whose minds are bound by Civilization can experience.

Unfortunately, we humans are the host of the Civilized virus. In order to live happy lives, we need an antivirus, an antidote to years of brainwashing. Many seek this through the use of mind-altering drugs, but the effects are only temporary with terrible side-effects. They are merely painkillers, not the cure.

Civilization's worst nightmare is that the masses become "desensitized" to its "morals," the code of "conscience" it has programmed into our neurons. It is only by deliberately breaking the code and by behaving as Nature designed us to that we can permanently escape. Even better is to act as an animal without acknowledging that the Civilized code even exists--for it exists only in our brains. But some of our brains have been so twisted that we can no longer differentiate between the wild and domestic. We poison ourselves, subject ourselves to the domination of imaginary gods and even kill our own children. We would be quickly eliminated through Natural Selection.

The solution is to reboot our minds with an animal code, one designed by Nature to ensure the survival of the individual and its children, one that uses pleasure and pain to guide us:

I am a wild animal

I am a survivor

I am a ferocious warrior

I live for the pleasures of food, sex, friendship, and the thrill of the chase

I live to eat and eat to live

I hunt, kill and eat other living things

I take what I want, hold onto it, and fight to keep it

I do whatever I want if I think I can get away with it

I try to get the most reward with the least amount of effort

I challenge and test everything

I take big risks only when the odds are in my favor or I have no other choice

I use whatever tools are at hand to get the job done

I prefer to live in a small, close-knit group of family and friends

I put my children first

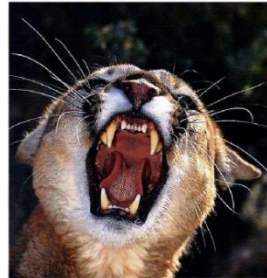

I cooperate and share only with my family, friends, and potential allies

I am cautious with outsiders, who could be competitors or enemies

I threaten, harass, raid and viciously fight my family's enemies

I will fight to the death to defend my children

I will never surrender or allow myself to be captured

Aggression

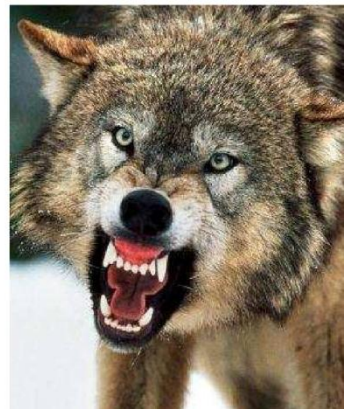

"Life itself is essentially appropriation, injury, conquest of the foreign and weaker..."

"Life always lives at the expense of other life"

--Friedrich Nietzsche

Although often characterized by long periods of calm and relaxation, the life of an animal is punctuated by intense (though often brief) episodes of exertion and violence. However, aggression and the emotions that accompany it are some of the most powerful animal drives, creating intense sensations as epinephrine, endorphins and other neurotransmitters flood the body in preparation for "fight or flight." For the animal, aggression comes just as naturally as eating or having sex.

Freedom, life itself comes with a price: without death, there can be no life. For every organism that lives, many others must die. Death comes to all. It is conflict, constant change, rather than static equilibrium that makes existence itself possible, from bacteria to exploding stars.

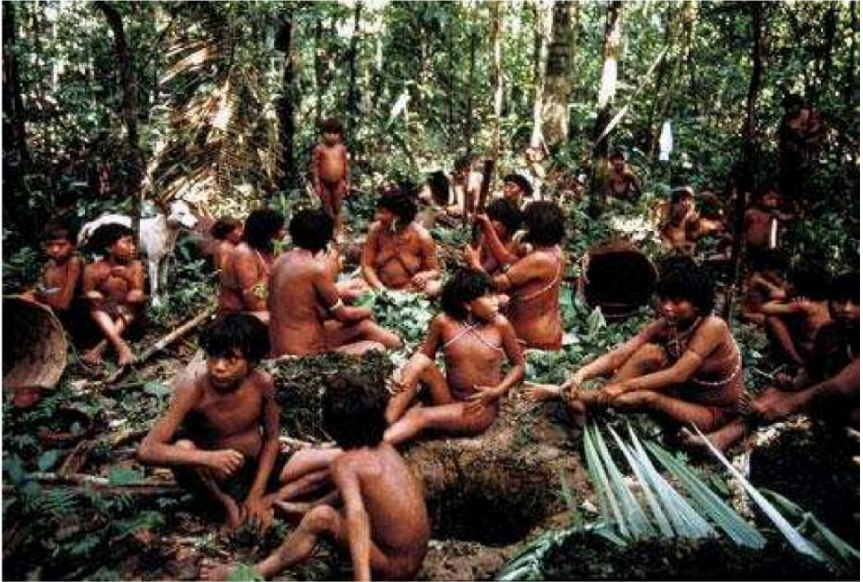

There are many who believe that violence is perhaps only "acceptable" when used in defense. This is one of the primary concepts that Civilization depends on for its continued existence. Those who shirk from raiding, harassing, attacking and annihilating the enemy are doomed already. The animal is not bound to respect an outsider's "claim" and takes by force what he is able to.

As animals, we are not born with the "right" to anything. We FIGHT for our territory, food, mates and position in life. We must be FIERCE, waiteri as the Yanomamo call it, for those who show weakness will be taken advantage of. Animals seek to maintain order within the group while at the same time encouraging aggression against foreign enemies. Making peace with all outsiders, pursuing global unity for the "greater good", leads only to overpopulation and depletion of resources, resulting in Civilization -- the domesticated, repressed existence of the masses.

The Wild Life

Civilization in its current form is highly unstable, overwhelmingly dependent on a handful of rapidly diminishing resources: fossil fuels. Its complexity and interconnectedness also makes it highly susceptible to major disruptions caused by warfare, space weather and natural disasters. It is fragile, and its total collapse is inevitable. In the event of collapse, the animal will thrive and multiply, completely freed from bureaucratic regulation and artificial boundaries. However, we cannot know for certain when this will occur. It may not happen in our lifetimes, and we have only now to live life to its fullest.

Life as a wild and free human can take many forms. Once the chains of artificial morality have been cast off, our options in life increase dramatically. If we are fortunate, we may have the option to live the ideal: hunting and gathering in patches of remaining remote wilderness. However, it is much more probable that we will make it as highly mobile, heavily armed raiders and warriors thriving on the periphery of Civilization. Whichever path we choose, our lifestyle will be characterized by loyalty to family and love of our children, ferocious autonomy, and fierce reputation among all outsiders.

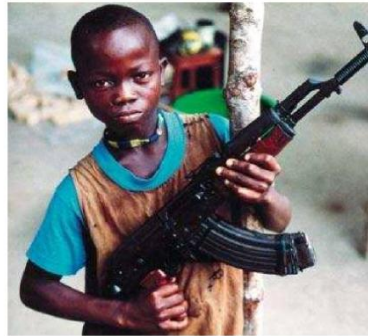

Above all, we utilize our skills and knowledge to maximize our pleasure and reproduce:

We may for-go one pleasure for a greater one, but we will never invest for nothing

We may take advantage of opponents, but never willingly let ourselves be taken advantage of

We may kill our family's enemy, but we will never knowingly harm our own children

We may die in the defense of our family, but we will never deliberately kill ourselves.

FAQ.

What is animalism? It is merely the human recognition and acceptance of behavior patterns that are followed by social omni/carnivorous mammals

Are animals opposed to technology? No. If they have access to it and are able to use it, they do!

What do you mean by "Civilization"? The conglomerate behavior-altering codes that exist in human minds and are superficially manifested through complex networks and tangible infrastructure.

Is Civilization evil? No. The very concept of good and evil is a Civilized construct. While the infrastructure of Civilization may be beneficial for the few who can work the system, its fundamental code is detrimental to individual enjoyment of life.

Aren't animals just moral nihilists? No. Self-preservation, pursuit of pleasure, reproduction, and defense of family are some of their guiding principles.

How do we know that natural humans are not basically altruistic, "good-natured" and peaceful? There are a number of recorded cases of "feral children," those raised in isolation from human society and without language. They looked out for themselves, had no concept of ownership, took what they wanted, and could act violently. They were human animals in the truest sense, what the animalist aspires to become.

What about secular humanism? Secular humanism is a desperate attempt by Civilization to adapt to a scientific society that increasingly questions the religious myths on which it is founded. It is simply a baseless repackaging of the moral code of individual repression "for the greater good." Ultimately, from an objective viewpoint, any choice of morals is completely arbitrary. To choose a system where one sacrifices ones interests or life for strangers simply makes no sense either on a personal or genetic level.

Do you believe in god/s or an afterlife? We are agnostic in that we are only able to recognize the existence of the material based on observable evidence. If other powers or dimensions exist, "belief" in such is irrelevant to the daily life of an animal.

Didn't all historic hunter-gather groups believe in the supernatural? There are many natural forces that inspire awe in the animal mind (such as chimpanzees displaying during storms). Given the knowledge they had, hunter gatherers did their best to try to explain and placate these mysterious phenomena through stories and rituals. Unfortunately through language, those seemingly harmless beliefs evolved into the very core of the civilized virus. While we regard hunter gatherers as closer to our animal natures, Civilization BEGAN with them. Therefore, it is feral children and non-human animals that serve as our primary models of pre-Civilized life.

Are animals egalitarian? No. All life constantly struggles. Many animals actively seek to become dominant and create order within their groups, while others accept submissive roles.

Are animals sexist? Males and females are not the same. In some animal societies (such as hyenas, bonobos) females are either close in size to males or larger, and are dominant. However, it is simply a fact of life that most primate males (including humans) are larger and stronger. This is not a statement of value, which is relative--females are invaluable to a group as mothers, caretakers, and in some cases even as fighters.

Do animals kill for pleasure? Many predators (wolves, lions, etc) especially the younger ones, will kill animals that they do not eat. They are hardwired to kill, but require practice to become proficient.

Do animals use drugs? Yes, in certain situations. Experiments have shown that rats will voluntarily consume morphine when isolated, but stop when returned to their social environment.

Of what benefit is Animalism? The majority of humans are crippled by moral constraints and/or fear. We are free to follow our innate desires and live life to the fullest in the here and now.

How can I become an animalist? You are already an animal. The hard part is separating oneself from Civilized memes. Spend as much time as possible watching animals and apply their decision making to your own circumstances. Begin hunting. Take every opportunity to go against the code that prevents you from acting on instinct. Stand up for yourself and FIGHT!
